

Kick-off meeting in Vienna, December, 10th and 11th 2015

Partners were welcomed by E-learning concept representatives in December 2015. This kick-off meeting was organized in tight collaboration with the college Grafische (www.grafische.net) of Vienna. Thereby a study visit was organized in order to discover the good practices implemented by the college (use of ICT in educational supports, multimedia resources,...). Partners had the opportunity to exchange with students and representatives of the college on the project topic and moreover they planned to produce a project presentation video during the second day of the meeting. Students have interviewed all E-Cal consortium members and are working on the video post-production.

Do not lose the opportunity to learn more!

Advances in technology and new teaching methods in the last few decades, available for free or for a small fee, have opened the door for many adults to learn a second language. From the apps for mobile phone, to software, to classes, there are a lot of ways people can learn a language besides their native tongue. However, one of main findings in the "European Survey on Language Competences" point the unexpected negative effects for 'ICT use at home for foreign language learning". People that lack of confidence, that are not used to create a personal learning plan, that dropout from traditional educational system searching for a better way to learn, struggle to find their way and benefit by themselves of this large amount of resources. Their needs to be guided and supported in the process, hence the need for a L2 Learning Supporter (L2LS).

By exploring and promoting the role of the L2 Learning Supporter using the web based OER, the project aim to enhance the learning opportunities for everyone, and make Web-based courses successful and enjoyable
