What's new on MEEA project

Since our last newsletter, the partnership continued working on the project results and completed the first one: the Handbook - Media Education for Aware Adults.

This result it has been created as a valuable resource for adult educators working with adults from all over Europe. From a technical and pedagogical standpoint, the Handbook provides basic knowledge and practical tools to be used.

To create this first result, a preliminary step was analyzing the needs of today's educators through focus group sessions in each partner country to collect the different needs and look for the similarities and the topics that need to be addressed to help adult educators in the media education field. We will release the final version of the handbook soon. In the meantime it is under test and evaluation before finalization, to collect feedback and suggestions for improvement before its translation in all partners' languages.

All this amazing work has been done thanks to the partners' cooperation that kept meeting online under the directions of the coordinators Acta Center.

Keep following us because soon we'll have some exciting news about our second project result: the training material for adult educators/trainers.
